Summary :

On Monday, September 23, 2024, a group of 22 MCA students from Amity Institute of Information and Technology, Kolkata, embarked on a social work initiative at Kolkata Trust for Human Development Orphanage for children. The primary goal of this outreach program was to provide emotional support, educational opportunities, and essential resources to the orphaned children.

The students engaged in various activities designed to promote the children's well-being and development. These activities included:

- Arts and Crafts: Encouraging creativity through painting, drawing, and crafting.
- Storytelling Sessions: Fostering imagination and language skills through reading and storytelling.
- Sports and Games: Promoting physical health and teamwork through team sports and outdoor games.
- Educational Workshops: Enhancing knowledge and practical skills with sessions on life skills, hygiene, and basic education topics.
- Music and Dance: Building confidence and providing a fun outlet for expression through music and dance sessions.
- Gardening: Teaching responsibility and connecting with nature through gardening activities.

At the conclusion of the activities, the students distributed essential supplies to the children, including stationery and food items. This gesture helped to ensure their educational and nutritional needs were met.

The social work initiative not only provided valuable support to the orphaned children but also offered the students a meaningful opportunity to give back to their community and develop a sense of empathy and compassion.
